PRIBILOF ISLANDS 2022, St. Paul Island

June 4 - 7, 2022

The Pribilof Islands lie in the middle of the Bering Sea about 600 miles from landfall. St. Paul Island, where we stay, hosts many of the largest colonies of alcids (auklets & other seabirds) in the world as well as the largest Northern Fur Seal colony in the world. St. Paul is an isolated and charming island with a small Aleut population. Asian vagrants regularly visit St. Paul in late May, and we expect to see a number of them along with the resident species. We spend the first night in Anchorage.

Huge colonies of seabirds next on the cliffs and in the rocks on the island including Parakeet, Least and Crested Auklets; Horned and Tufted Puffins; Thick-billed & Common Murres' Northern Fulmar; Black-legged & Red-legged Kittiwakes.

June 6	Full days birding. Overnight at St. Paul Island
June 7	Morning and early afternoon birding. Depart for Anchorage about 4 PM.

DETAILED ITINERARY

DAY 1

Arrival: Anchorage International Airport; transfer to Coast International Inn

We'll meet in Anchorage at the Coast International Hotel at 6:30 PM for dinner downtown at Orso, one of the finest restaurants in Alaska. After dinner, we'll do a hour or so of birding. We can usually find a pair of nesting Pacific Loons close-by and, if we're lucky, nesting Northern Goshawk.

DAY 2

Flight to St. Paul Island & Overnight

Breakfast at the Coast. Proceed to airport at 9:30 AM for our flight to St. Paul, departing about 11:30 AM. Arrive St. Paul about 3:30 PM. We'll be staying this year at the airport hotel in newly renovated quarters. We'll go birding before dinner, probably getting our first good looks at Red-legged Kittiwake. Dinner at the airport restaurant. Birding afterwards. We'll be looking especially for the White-tailed Eagle that has been seen a number of times over the last three years.

Birding from 7:30 until 10 or later, depending upon what we might find. This will be our schedule for the entire stay on the island. We will spend at least one morning at the sea cliffs observing the vast array of nesting birds: Red-faced and Pelagic Cormorant; Northern Fulmar; Black-legged & Red-legged Kittiwake; Tufted and Horned Puffin; Common and Thick-billed Murre; Crested,

Parakeet, & Least Auklet all breed along these cliffs. Ancient Murrelets are seen in small numbers. We usually find a couple of Steller's Eiders and Emperor Geese. Yellow-billed Loon is often seen from the shore. We'll also spend some time looking for vagrant species that have been seen here frequently over the years such as Wood Sandpiper, Tundra Bean Goose, Smew, Common Pochard, Common Greenshank, Lesser Sand Plover, Common Cuckoo, Brambling, Rustic Bunting, Eye-browed Thrush and many others.
